Saturday was expected to be the signest point to which the waters would reach. The flood-mark of last spring, and what the government ocrysts call "the danger-line" was ched, when the river came to a stand. But a heavy or continuous rain on Saturday Edit, until nine o'clock next morning, has revived anxieties. We reer the reader to our telegraph and weather articles for the latest tidings. Certain it is that so much rain in July and August as we have had this year is something new to the cotton grower's experience. Our market has been insignificant all week, tut closes with a drasping tendency; and, once more, on Enturday the quotations of middling cotton at New York, New Orleans, and sequent tendency of the plant to "run to weed," and some cold nights, give room for anxiety. The New York Bulretin other vest hat the news of floods is off et by the stock in New York being found to include 9000 bales beyond the running count—by the slight demand from exporters—and by the gen-eral strike at the Fall River cottou mills. It appears to be considered statements for the United States ports at the east, that any losses likely to for the week ending Friday last: come from floods in the Mississippi bottoms will be fully compensated for by the fine yield in the uplands, Georgra, etc., and the generally nearray drion of the crop. The Ewitelin obstock at interior towns.

This has grown out of the small supply and relative high price of the lower grades of American-which has induced spinners o use more Surats—and to the scarcity if good-stapled parcels and the conseuent increased use of Brazils. The suport is now 140,000 bales larger than at his time last year. This excessive supply—so totally unexpected four months ago—has been a primary cause of the recent depression here. MOST OF THE BANKS consider this period, from the middle of August to the first of October, as the most dull and lifeless in the year. We are now within those dates, and certainly the slumberer of the book of Proverbs could not have folded his hands at a more eventless season. Even the fruit trade, that for several weeks has preserved some movement among us, is dying away. Apple have lost their charm, pears their piquancy, peaches their attraction, and plums their pungency; potatoes are almost proscribed, and oulone ostracated. We are sorry for all this; there was a little effervescence while the fruit and vegetable trade was going on; it is subsiding, and duliness unmitigated must take its place. Wheat goes with the rest. It has not "amounted to much" as a trade article, but it has demonstrated one fact-if Memphis wishes to have a wheat market, it must have mills to grind the wheat that is offered it; only so can it pay satisfactory prices. And why should we not grind all the flour Memphis and its customers consume? Is Brownsville, which we affect to regard as a mere country village, to beat us in flour-grinding? is in that position poetical described as a "dead cock in the pit, poetically every article in it is dull to the last de gree; even corn is only in slight demand. This shows, practically, that our planters have listened to the dietates of sound common sense for once, at least. Our planters have grown their own feed for themselves-that is the true independence. Provisions, during the past week, have been advancing. There has been doubts about the soundness of one speculation or another, but | 4 per cent. per annum, and 1-64 per cent. the result is a real advance, taking the par diem. Government bonds steady; whole week together. Flour, we must notice, has lost something of the high position the advances in wheat gave it, and is lower. Turning to financial matters, we are almost troubled what to say. Naturally we desire to "present the best foot foremost," like the lady at the bail; but the best foot there is does not suit us. In 1873 there was a difficulty that, since then, has been called a panic. It and irregular, except Western Union, was not thought much of at the time, which were active and advanced to 84. yet, since then, we have never been in a Atlantic and Pacific telegraph rose to really flourishing position-there was a 22. He says that, while some individuals like himself have suffered considerably, yet the aggregate damage will not be as great as some have represented, and that when the water draws off from the lowlands the farmers will find they are not as badly hurt as they think. He speaks quite hopefully under the circumstances. It is suggested, and we think it a good ides, that General Meyers, chief of the signal bureau, cause the danger-line at Memphis to be changed from thirty-four feet to about thirty-two and a half feet. as the bulk of the damage done during the present rise occurred above Memphis, and when the water was at the figure suggested. Besides, it is best to have the line a little below than risk the chances on an exact altitude. We hope Sergeant Ludwig will correspond with his chief on the subject. Captain Dick Lightburne received a dispatch from Captain Bob Wise, of the James D. Parker, dated at Evansville, to the effect that heavy fogs had de-layed the Parker so that she could not reach Memphis before yesterday evening. He also requested Captain Lightburne to notify the public that he had made special arrangements for a round-trip excursion on the Parker to Cincinnati and return, for which tickets would be sold at special rates. Good music and other necessaries to make the hours gay and festive have been secured, and those who avail themselves of this opportunity to visit Cincinnati will find that what other people have said about Captain Wise's hospitality has not been too highly colored; nay, that words cannot paint in too glowing terms what Captain Wise and his able staff can do to make people comfortable. Tennessee River Improvement. Knoxville Press and Herald. There are about one hundred men employed in making improvements on the Tennessee, at Soddy, Caney, and Seven island shoals. The high water has prevented much progress with the work at these points, and has prevented any channel work entirely. At Soddy another wing dam is building, near the foot of the shoals, which will supplement the effect of the dam already constructed at the head of the shoals, and gives three feet of water at all stages of the river. There is a good deal of work to be done in blasting rocks at various points, and this cannot be done while the river is up, as men cannot work the drills where water is over four feet deep. The blasting is done with giant powder, which is a combination of nitro-glycerine with a kind of infusorial earth which is brought from Germany. The giant powder looks and feels like dirty putty, but will not soil paper. It made up in cartridges in a kind of parchment paper, and is ignited by means of a percussion cap placed at the end of a water-proof fuse. The explosion of the charge kills all the fish in the psychorhood, who are attracted by the neighborhood, who are attracted by the bubbling of the fuse under the water, The hands are all employed by the government, and receive seventy-five cents per day and board, for dry work, and a dollar a day and board for work in the water.
